Nar Phu Valley Trek leads to the most isolated part of the Annapurna region. Nar and Phu are two separate villages, which are at day walking distance from each other. Trekking in Nar Phu Valley is opened since 2003. You need to get a special permit from the government to go on this trek. Here, you will get to experience the rich culture and tradition of Tibetan inhabitants. You get to see the wonderful landscape and stunning views of Himalayas during the Nar Phu Valley Trekking.

During the Nar Phu Valley Trek, you pass through a glacier, high pass, narrow gorge, and dense forests. The trail is incredibly beautiful. As you will spend the day in Nar and Phu villages, you will get to see the lifestyle of the locals. You will explore Buddhist gumpa and stupas. The trail is challenging, and you need to be in good shape. If you have previous trekking experience, it will get easy for you to walk and adapt to the environment easily.
